Church Music That Was Not a Concord of Sweet Sounds.

FASTIDIOUS FAULT-FINDERS.

INTERMENTS IN THE CITY.

Our leading city churches have long been in the habit, as is well known, of providing themselves with paid choirs and organists whose artistic touches are saiary. Of course the wealthier the congregation the more artistic the singers and the more skilled the organist, with a proportionate increase of pay commensurate with their higher advancement that the greatest harmony would prevail in the music wever, to be always the case, as was developed in suit brought to trial yesterday before Chief Justice Uurtis, of the Supreme Court. Edward C. Schanck, who brings the suit, states in his complaint that 'he was engaged by the Church of the Incarnation, corner of Madison avenue and Thirty-fifth street, to turnish the church with an organist and quartet choir, such arrangement to go nto effect on the 1st of May last and to continue for one year. The church authorities agreed to pay him $3,000, with which to pay the artists to be thus en gaged. After some trouble in making his selection, there being scarcely any end to the artists feeling themselves competent for the cares to be filled, he made his selection, and they entered upon their assigned duties. The singing of the choir non their assigned duties. The singing of use choir of the playing of the organist gave rise to discord, of among the artists so much, it seems, as among ertain members of the congregation. At all events, ther a short time the church peremptorily refused to erform its part of the contract, and so Mr. Schanck as brought suit for $4,000 damages. Ex. Judge Fithian preserted for the plaintiff and Mr. John E. Parsons for perform its part of the contract, and so Mr. Schanck has brought suit for $3,000 dainsges. Ex.Judge Fithian appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. John E. Parsons for the church.

Mr. Schanck was called as the first witness. Though his complaint was drawn up after the usual staid legal formula, his testimony was spicily piquant. He charged the whole thing upon the "Musical Committee charged the whole thing upon the "Musical Committee and the they knew nothing about music. He said, that they knew nothing about music. He said further that the next difficult thing to success in giving particular satisfaction to any musical committee of a church, was siving general satisfaction to the church members themselves; he said there was no money in it for him in making the eigagements, but, as the church had made the contract, he was bound they should stick to it. Mr. Max Maretzek, the great chef d'or-chefre, next took the witness stand. He said that the soprano against whom the church committee seemed to have hurled its chief arrows of discontent was a first class singer, that she had sung in other churches with great satisfaction and had also sung under him in operas. The testimony of other wrinesses on Mr. Schanck's behalf simply wont to confirm the leading allegations in his complaint.

In his opening for the defence Mr. Parsons almed to be savagely sarcastic on Mr. Schanck. He pictured the gentleman in the two characters of auctioneer and chorister, leaving it to the jury to "look on this picture and then look on that," which they did with evident seeming delight. He represented that Mr. Schanck's duties as impresario consisted mainly in pulling the coat tans of the male singers and calling out to the lady singers, "louder," or "soite," as the whim took him.

Mr. Herrick, a vestry man of ten years' standing and also a member of the Musical Committee, was examined. He was asked if Mr. Herrick did not shut the door leading to the choir foft in the soprano's face and tell her to did not want her there. He said that he had be om all present.

"Are not much larger salaries paid singers in some ther churches than was paid to this choir?" asked s interlocutor.

Mr. Parsons.

"I want to show that Mr. Schanek did not engage to furnish the very best music, but that the music was simply a parallel to the preaching of the country parson, who, when asked why he preached such poor sermons, answered, 'Poor pay, poor preach.'"

The trial will be resumed to day.

A BURIAL CASE.

A rather singular suit has been brought by Mrs. ilderberg against the German Lutheran church Christopher street. Her story is that ter father was owner of a vault in the church, and that she, on his brother-in-law, who died in July, 1874. The church refused to allow the vault to be opened, on the ground that it was forbidden by a corporation ordinance. Not wishing to give it up so, Mrs. Milderberg laid the case before the Board of Health, and obtained a permit to deposit the remains of her brother-in-law in the vault, and exhibited this permit, but it did not prove to possess the open sesame power, and the result is a suit against the church for exemplary damages. The case came to trial yesterday before Juige Bonohue. The delende sets up the corporation ordinance as a restriction which they had no right to disregard. Mr. C. E. Minor appeared for the plaintiff, and Charles E. Tracy for the delendant.

WILL OF MRS. SARAH M'GLYNN. The will of the late Mrs. Sarah McGlynn, mother of the Very Rev. Dr. McGlynn, of St. Stephen's, was a lew days ago offered to probate in the Surrogate's Court. The will bequeaths to the sons John A. Mc. Glynn, Edward McGlynn, D. D.; Francis McGlynn, ter, all of the property, amounting to about $100,000, in equal shares, with the exception of a bequest of $100 each to a son and daughter who are in affluent circumstances and not in need of a larger bequest, and $500 to the Little Staters of the Poor and $500 to the executors of the will, for the benefit of the fund for aged and indigent Roman Catholic priests.

Mr. Pholps, counsel for the defence in the Emma Silver Mine Company's suit, continued his opening address yesterday to the jury. One of the jurors, Edward F. Norton, was quable to be present on account of sickness, and by mutual consent the case proceeded with eleven jurors.

It was William Schroeder who pleaded guilty in the Court of General Sessions, on Wednesday, before Judge Suberland, to the charge of breaking into the stable at No. 2.197 Second avenue, and stealing chickens therefrom, and not Mr. Patrick Slavin to whom the stable and property belong. Schroeder was sont to State Prison for two years and six months.

In the suit of Antonio Lamberte against Pictro Mutegazza to recover $5.000 damages for sieged false imprisonment, the facts of which were published in yesterday? Herald, a verdict for $300 was yesterday rendered for the piaintiff, before Judge Van Hoesen, in the Court of Common Pleas.

In regard to the application of Penelope C. Smith to vacate the decree of divorce obtained by her husband, william B. Smith, the lacts of which were published exclusively in Thursday's Herald, Judge Barrett yesterday granted an order setting aside the divorce, and giving leave to Mrs. Smith to come in and defend the Isait.

James W. Bouton says that between the 1st of June, 1871, and October, 1874, he sold books to the extent of several thousand dollars to Mr. Samuel J. Theen, and that $964 is still due for them. Mr. Bouton never thought of sueing, or even making a demand, as Mr. Tilden asserts, until october, 1876, when he commenced a suit to recover the balance claimed by him. Mr. Tilden has answered, saying that plaintiff was accustomed to send him books to select therefrom what he wanted, and that he did select what he wanted, paid for all he selected, and does not owe the plaintiff a dollar.

In Freiburg, Germany, Solomon Ebbling seduced, under promise of marriage, Victoria Brugger, as she allogea. This was in 1872, and she came to America. A year following she invosted $36 in a nicket to bring him to this country, in the expectation that he would make his promise good. She met him at Castle Garden, took him to a boarding house and paid his board, but up to this time, although renewing his promise, he has failed to perform it. She had him arrested by the Sheriff about a week ago in a suit for $20.000 damages, which was tried in the Marine Court before Judge McAdam yesterday. The defendant admitted the improper relations with plaintiff, but denied the promise to marry, and asserted that she shared her affections with others. The last charge she positively denied. The Judge gave plaintiff $125 damages.

In the suit of Henry H. Boody asgunst Samuel J. Tiden and others the plaintiff was further examined yesterday touching his monetary transactions. No new facts were elicited, though the statements mader evenled a singular mode of doing business. The case will probably be finished to-day.

GENERAL SESSIONS-PART L Before Recorder Hackett

THE SUTTON PERJURY CASE. The trial of James Sutten, President of the Aldine Publishing Company, charged with perjury in swearing rublishing Company, charged with perjury in swearing, as alleged, to a greater loss than occurred at a fire that took place on the 24th of June, 1875, was resumed yesterday. Assistant District Attorney Horring, on the part of the prosecution, examined a number of experts on the manufacture of chromos and electrotypes. They testified that the estimates of loss set forth by the accused were in excess of what they should have been. The remainder of the testimony was of a corroborative character. The further hearing of the case will be resumed to-day.

GENERAL SESSIONS-PART 2 Before Judge Sutherland. THE PISTOL AGAIN.

As William Black, of No. 46 Monroe street, was going ome on the evening of the 30th of January last a boy was seen to pick his pocket and make off with a muffler. Mr. Black was knocked down, but, on getting muffler. Mr. Black was knocked down, but, on getting up, he met a sailor named William Landers, James Ryan and others, and some words passed between them, when the accused drew a pistol and fired the ball, taking effect in Landers' neck. Assistant District Attorney Rollins, on behalf of the prosecution, claimed that, in view of the circumstances, the prisoner had neight to fire the pistol, and that he was guilty of the offence charged. Mr. Spencer, on behalf of the prisoner, ur. ed that he was justified, as he believed he was again to be attacked and robbed. The jury found him guilty of assault and battery, and he was remanded for sontence.

PLEAS AND SENTENCES. Frank Miller, aged seventeen, of No. 13 Bowery, and James Brown, aged eighteen, of No. 24 Stanton street broke into the liquor store of Joseph Peconzo, No. 90 Park street, and stole property valued at $54. The prisoners plended guilty and were sentenced each to eighteen months in the Penitentiary.

Eliza Murphy, a shoplifter, of No. 26 First avenue Eliza Murphy, a shoplifter, of No. 26 First avenue, pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing a piece of silk from the store of A. T. Stewart & Co. She was sentenced to two years in the State Prison.

Frank Pennegran, of No. 316 Third avenue, who looke into the rooms of Eliza Launcelot, at No. 21 kast Houston street, and stole clothing and jewelry valued at $100, pleaded guilty and was sent to the Pentientiary tor one year.

John Mctlarvey, of No. 18 Monroe street, was arraigned at the bar charged with picking a lady's pocket on Broadway, and, having pleaded guilty, he was sent to the Pentientiary tor one year.

Charles Davis, of No. 555 Hudson street, pleaded guilty to the charge of breaking into the premises of Vincent J. Lawson and stealing two coats valued at $56, Judge Sutherland scatenced him to five years in the State Prison.

Joseph Pitts, a barber, of No. 23 Market street, was detected in the act of picking the pocket of Henry H. Stelling, of Hobokus, N. J., on the 8th inst., and sicaling his watch. The prisoner pleaded guilty and was sent to the State Prison for one year.

OYER AND TERMINER. Before Judge Brady. INTERESTING FORGERY TRIAL AND CONVICTION

OF THE ACCUSED. John S. Brush, jointly indicted with John F. Cardrawn in the name of Sargent & Co., hardware merchants, on the Importers and Traders' National Bank, for $400, was placed at the bar for trial. Brush, who seat next nis wife, a young and notably pretty brunette, who seemed to exhibit unusual devotion to him sealskin sacque and was otherwise elaborately cos-tumed. The court room was crowded during the pro ceedings, and great interest was manifested in the details of the case as they were unfolded by counsel. clerk, Anson Hutton, an acquatatance of Brush. The prisoner obtained from Hutton a blank check of the firm, and a few days subsequently a check signed Sargent & Co., calling for $400, was presented to the payable to bearer, and duly honored. The discovery was speedily made that the signature of the firm had the supposed culprits. Suspicion finally fastened upon one John F. Carpenter, and his house was watched. one John F. Carpenter, and his house was watched. He was taken into custody, and the prisoner, as he was in the act of leaving the premises, was also arrested, both captures taking place on the 2d of December last. The prisoners were taken before Judge Morgan at the Tombs and committed for trial. At the trial yesterday a jury was empanelled without much difficulty, and the case proceeded. Messra, William F. Kinzing and Rufus F. Andrews appeared as counsel for the prosecution. Mr. Hunt, the paying teller of the Importers and Traders' Bank, testined that the check in question was presented on the 19th of October, 1876, and by him honored. He identified without difficulty Carpenter, who was present in court, as the man to whom he paid thu money. There were three other checks also prosented and honored, all of which bore the perfect signature of the firm of Sargent & Co. Mr. Sargent, senior member of the victimized firm, testified as to the spurious signature attained to the check. Anson Hutton, the clerk, was next put on the stand, and swore that he gave the blank check to the prisoner, and also that after the crime became known the accused admitted to him that he had perpetrated the forgerly, but forbade him to divulge it on pain of seniors personal consequences. From fear of the prisoner he failed to notify his employers, but subsequently consented to tell all he knew when questioned in the District Attorney's office. No evidence was presented on the prisoner's behalf, the defence relying exclusively on the argument of Mr. Kintzing, who contended that it would be unsafe to convict on such circumstantial evidence. Mr. Russell argued that a clearer case of culpability had never been proven in a court of justice. After a brief but succinet charge by Judge Brady, the jury returned a verdict of guilly. The Asastant District Attorney then gave the accused a very bad character, stating that he was known as a professional forger, and as he was likely to get the luft penalty for the present offence he would not press to for as much mercy as the Court could consistently grant, Judge Brady said, in passing sentence, that the Court was not responsible for the verdict, although it must concur in its justice. Forgery was a very serious crime and was becoming alarmingly prevalent. It was only to-day that the last of a $200,000 forgery was flashed across the wires. He concluded by sentencing the prisoner to State Prison for five years.

After the sentence the wife of the prisoner burst into tears, and, raising her bands in the direction of the witness Hutte, denounced him in tragic-tones as a har. The primer took it very coolly.

COURT CALENDARS-THIS DAY.

In regard to the application of Penelope C. Smith to vacate the decree of divorce obtained by her husband, William B. Smith, the facts of which were published exclusively in Thursday's Brakalo, Judge Barrett vesterday grapted an order setting aside the divorce, and giving leave to Mrs. Smith to come in and defend the rail.

Comptroller Kelly is evidently looking after street opening charges. In the matter of opening 160th sirect from Bloomingdale road to Riversade avenue and 175th street from Kingsbridge road to Tenth avenue he objects to the surveyors' bills, that in the former case being $303.00 and in the latter case $483.72. He also promounces as extravagant charges that of $250 for elerical services in each case. These objections were filed yesterday with the report, to be considered before its confirmation.

Washington E. Langly obtained a check, as he says, for $200 from Horace K. Thurber & Co., several days ago, payable to his own order, but before he had indered the either lost it or it was stolen from him. He notified the drawers, whereupon payment of the check was stopped. Thurber & Co., as he avers, retused to give him another check or pay him the money.

TREMENDOUS SENSATION.
Overwhelming success of Row's great local play,
"FIFTH AVENUE."
pronounced by Mr. William Winter, the experienced critic of the New York Tribune, to be SUPERIOR TO THE "STREETS OF NEW YORK." The play is A VIVID PICTURE OF LIFE IN THE GREAT METROPOLIS as it was in 1863.

THE PIECE IS IN PIVE ACTS.

PICTURES the sinking of an ocean steamer with the thrilling incidents that tell of the perils of the deep. The wonderful advance made in stage mechanism is illustrated in this act.

PICTURES a scene on the lovely Hudson, and embraces a charming view of the Palisades. The sensation of this act is the LAUNCHING OF AN TRONCLAR.

PICTURES Fith avenue by night. In this act occurs the much tasked of "Murder of Mr. Schuyler, the capitalist," which is nightly witnessed with the intenses thereas.
